THE MESSAGE GROWS. Each year the greeting in Warren's Crescent Park, facing the river, has a bit added to it by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The words now have been augmented by trees at each end and a star in the center.

EVER BRIGHTER. The star on the front of Warren's Bethlehem Covenant church seems to take on a brighter glow each Christmas. This year a typical Christmas picture is placed in the center of the many lights.

THE NATIVITY SCENE always is nicely done by the Warren First Lutherans. It again can be seen at the front of the church, nestled warmly in the deep snow.

EXCEPTIONALLY FINE music was heard in Beatty auditorium, Monday, when the Warren high school a capella choir presented a major part of the carol festival. The group seemed to have a greater range than ever, and pleased a crowded house. The director is Carroll Fowler.

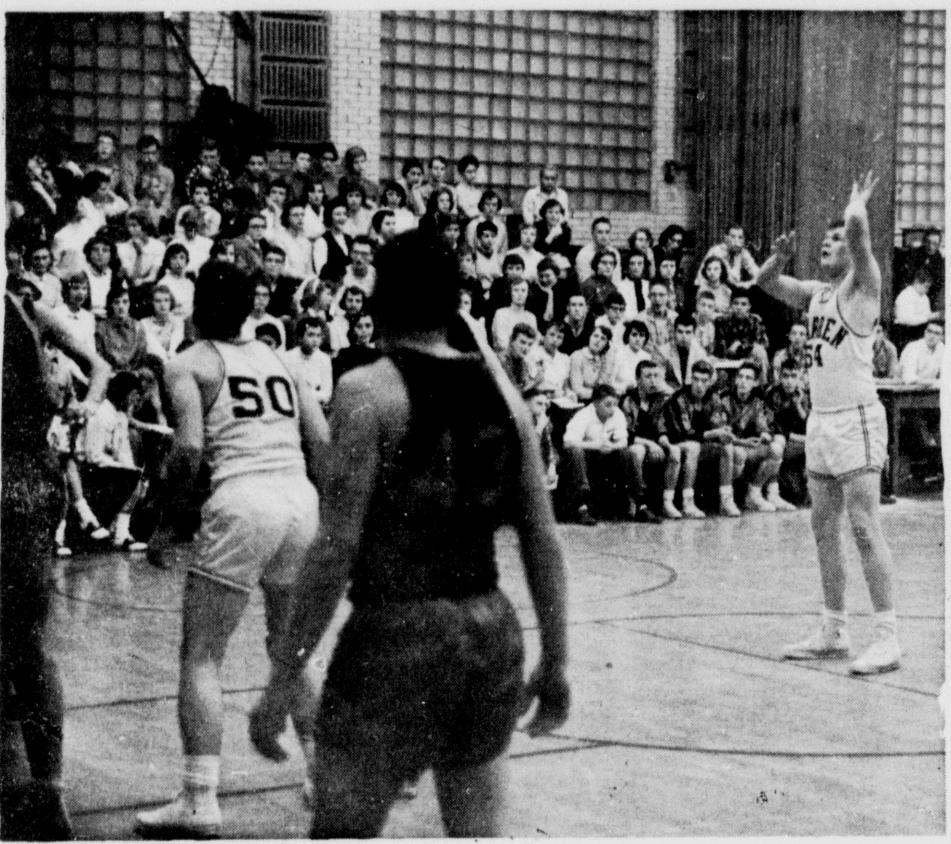

LATE HOURS are required by those who make ice skating possible. Here the borough's equipment clears the snow so that Jaycees can start spraying late in the evening. The big plow takes off the bulk of the snow and the little one polishes off the remainder.

LIGHT MOMENT. This was taken at one of the less crowded hours on Warren's new ice rink over the week end. It was late afternoon, Sunday, and most of the skaters had left for supper. It is a popular spot and will continue to be so if the weather permits ice.

INTO THE AIR goes Jeff Homan for 21 points of the 53 Warren could as he sends one toward the basket in the Sheffield game. He was good

A COLD NIGHT was suffered by Wink Rickerson, seen here shooting a foul in the Sheffield game. Wink, who is mighty handy with anything from a baseball to the bigger variety, couldn't find the range.

FOR MEN ONLY -- and beautifully wrapped too. Men of the Warren area responded in great numbers to the Wednesday evening opening last week when the lady clerks went all out to help pick gifts for the gentlemen buyers. Here in Betty Lee, four girls gift-wrapped the dainties while the men lounged and enjoyed the refreshments.

ORDINANCE NO. 616

Amending Section 23 of Article V of Ordinance Number 524, entitled "An Ordinance providing Traffic and Parking Regulations and providing the penalty for their violations", said Ordinance having been approved November 12, 1952.

The Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Warren hereby enacts and ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 23 of Article V or Ordinance No. 524, approved November 12, 1952, is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 23. Parking on Third Avenue East. Parking shall be prohibited on the north side of Third Avenue East, from Water Street to Conewango Avenue, and on the south side from Water Street to the Bridge. Parking shall be prohibited on the south side of Third Avenue East from the east side of Third Avenue Bridge to a point fifty feet easterly therefrom, and from the southwest intersection of Conewango Avenue and Third Avenue East to a point on the South side of Third Avenue East fifty feet westerly of this intersection. Parking on the south side of Third Avenue East from the Third Avenue Bridge to Conewango Avenue other than in the two fifty foot prohibited areas shall be limited to one (1) hour.

Adopted this 14th day of December, 1955.

It's

Christmas

Stars like frosty snowflakes glisten.
Trees are still, as though they listen
For the far-off bells that chime
Their blessings on this happy time.
Children sleep, and, dreaming, see
The magic, present-laden Tree,
While mothers watch and think of one
Who in a stable lulled her Son.
In town and country neighbors go
Caroling across the snow,
And hearts and homes are opened wide
To let the lonely come inside.

Lord, may this love and joy abide
With us until next Christmastide!

Warren Fireman Killed, Six Hospitalized, In United Refinery Fire

Hartwell Willey, 50, a twenty-eight year veteran of the Warren fire department, was killed this morning by an explosion in the neutral filter house of the United Refinery. Six other Warren firemen were hospitalized, five with facial burns, and one with shock. The firemen were called out at 3:40. The fire started when Mike Pasquerette, an employee, opened a valve. He and Gus Swanson escaped from the building.

Firemen were bringing the blaze under control when the explosion occurred. Captain Willey was walking through the doorway of the building and was injured by both the explosion and the crumbling walls.

Firemen in the hospital are Chief Jim Tridico, shock; Maurice Baxter, Tom Bean, Walter Main, Ralph Dalrymple, and Lloyd Wilbur, all with facial burns.

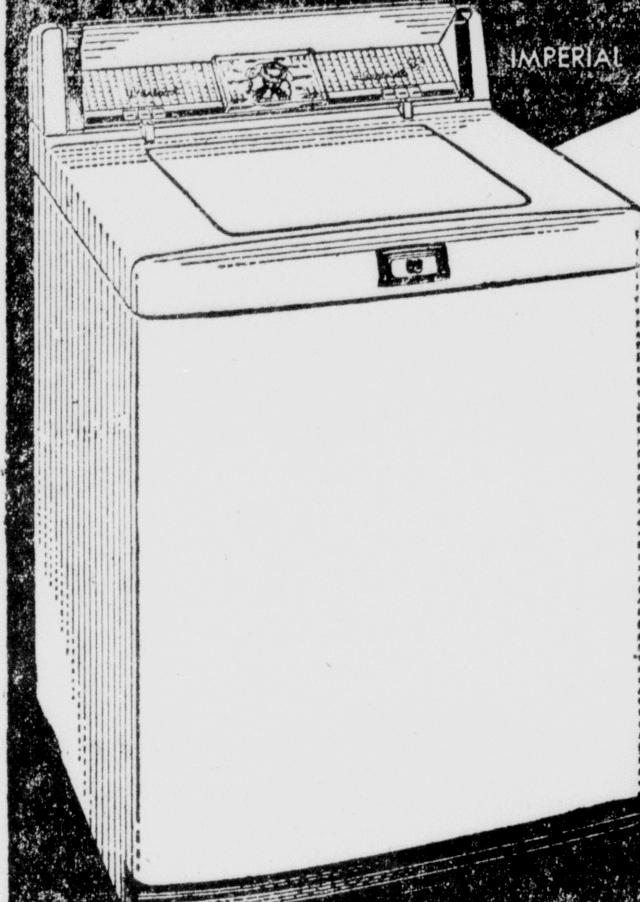

Also treated were Erma Fitzgerald, of the department, and James McCool, an employee of the refinery. Two reporters, Phil Coyle and Jim Brown received minor injuries from the force of the explosion.

The fire was brought under control in about three hours, though the department and volunteers from neighboring communities stayed on the job to prevent further trouble.

Mr. Willey had been one of Warren's best firemen, advancing to the rank of captain over ten years ago. At the time of his death he was actively promoting a drive for muscular dystrophy funds, a project which he successfully headed a year ago.

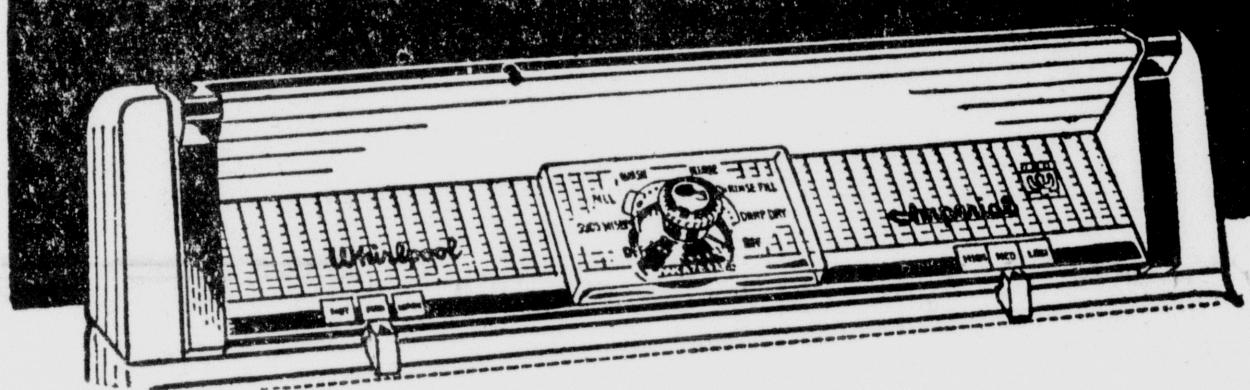

Removal was made to the Gibson Funeral Home, where details of the services can be obtained. He is survived by his mother and two sisters.

THE HEALING LIGHT, a Christmas Pageant, was presented in Trinity Memorial Episcopal church by boys and girls and adults on Sunday, December 18. The accompanying picture was taken back stage of some of the youthful attractions. The costuming and the music was beautiful and the sanctuary was filled with worshippers.

A COOPERATIVE EFFORT of several civic-minded organizations has assured a "Merry Christmas" for some of the unfortunate children of Warren County. Toys and games have been gathered at the Ettinger Keystone Station depository and repaired by Warren firemen. Girls of the Y-Teens sewed doll clothes, James Blomquist and Mastersons provided the trucks to transport the gifts, the Kiwanis club assumed part of the cash expenses, and the Warren County probation officer for girls, Mrs. Lenor Jordan, will aid in the distribution, in order to spread the holiday cheer.

This picture shows just a portion of the toys and games. Ap-

THE TRUE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT was exemplified by members of the North Warren Brownie Troops when they presented two quilts, which they made, to Miss Clare Elliott, executive secretary of the Children's Aid Society, for distribution as she sees the need. The girls and their leaders spent the remainder of the meeting time on Tuesday of this week in the North Warren Presbyterian church listening to stirring stories of how the Aid has helped unfortunate youngsters in Warren County.

ROW III: Sharon Repp, Eleanor Munch, Lane Donovan, Mrs. Loyal Briggs, Delores Gerard, Mrs. Don Dalrymple, Candy Carlson, Cynthia Larson, Mrs. George Look, Marjorie Stewart, Carol Sanden, and Karen Schneider.

The girls have illustrated a spirit that should be duplicated by hundreds of dads and moms. The quilts which represent the labors of their hands could be adequately represented by the dollars and cents earned by the average families. Before you call this Christmas season successful, write that check to the Children's Aid Society "Happiness Fund" and mail it to 404 Market St., Warren. Your Christmas celebration will be blessed if you know that the less fortunate have received adequate provisions for the holidays.

Thank You...

Child Care

I can't remember any previous time when we were lectured so extensively about the care and feeding and psychology of our children. NBC-TV is now offering that world authority on children, Dr. Benjamin Spock, every Sunday afternoon (3 p.m. EST). At the same time CBS-TV offers "Talkaround," which is simply a lot of parents and children, under the supervision of Katherine Copeland, talking out the problems of discipline and emotional well-being in that tumultuous unit, the family.

Then the other day "Omnibus" did a sort of playlet called "Jack Be Normal" by Arnold Sundgaard, which was in essence an attempt to teach us all how to recognize a normal child. This was a dramatization of an eight-year study by Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck on the habits and inner natures of 1,000 boys. Five hundred were delinquent, 500 were not, and the idea was to show not only the one from the other but how they got that way.

What they came up with was a bunch of cliches which, I hasten to add, were deliberate cliches because, as Mr. Sundgaard points out, cliches are in many cases very durable truths. Some of the cliches: A boy's best friend is his mother; the child is father to the man; be it ever so humble there is no place like home; train up the child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it. All these sayings, bewhiskered though they be, happen to be terribly true and terribly pertinent to a child's upbringing, Mr. Sundgaard points out.

He also says that bad behavior is not necessarily delinquent behavior and that discipline, far from being resented, is actually demanded and appreciated by a normal child. You may know all these things but they can stand restating. And so can Mr. Sundgaard's closing words: "The ideal of love, the force of that love, is started here (in the home). If somehow the world can be made to seem attractive in home itself -- if other people there can be made to have meaning -- then we don't worry. The indifference to one's family can become for the child indifference to all men. Or the love found in one's family can easily become the love of all mankind."

In short, the "Omnibus" playlet, which got a little too arty for my taste from time to time, was in large measure simple reassurance to parents and a restatement of some old values that had become beclouded by psychiatry and progressive education. Reassurance, it seems to me, is the key to all these programs. Dr. Spock, for instance, has been in the reassurance business for years. You just turn to the right page of his book and you'll discover that your child is behaving just like every other child. My objection to the Spock program is that there is too much talk from the parents who tell their problems to him and not enough Spock. Parents turn to Spock for expert guidance and, on his TV program, he seems a little reluctant to give it.

On "Talkaround," Miss Copeland reads specific problems and asks a covey of children and parents how they would solve them. They are not very difficult problems -- how to get a child to stop reading and go to bed at some reasonable hour -- and the sunny harmony which prevails between children and adults on this show is sometimes a little unreal.

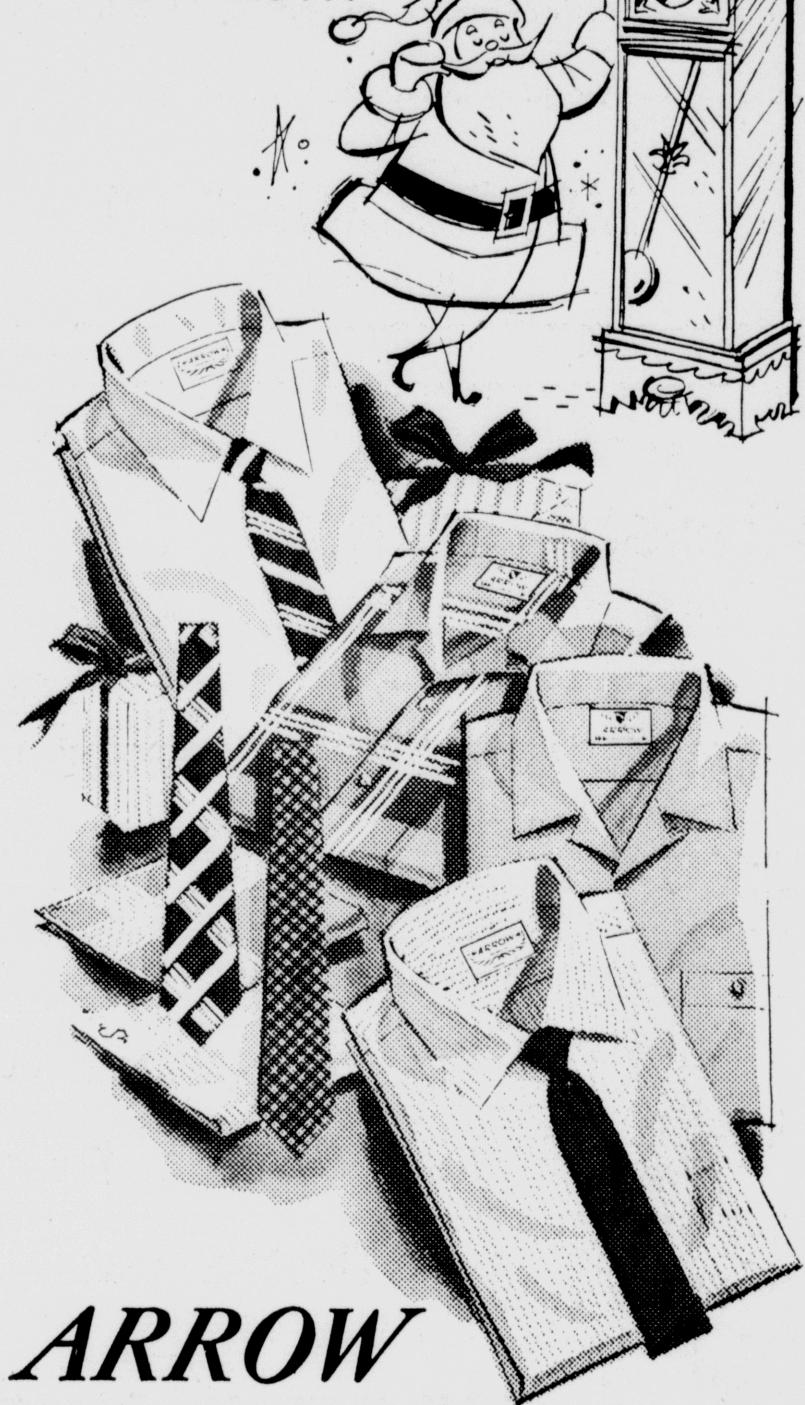

Again reassurance is the chief contribution and that is no small thing. You're likely to find your parental problems are pretty much like everybody else's and that your solutions are, too. One thing that is emphasized again and again is that discipline is not only demand-

THE SPOILERS

Whenever a group or a community wishes to do something constructive, you can depend on a small number of irresponsibles who will attempt to destroy it. Such has been the case with the combination ice skating and tennis courts on Beatty field.

The Jaycees and park employees have spent long cold hours experimenting with the job of building an ice foundation on the courts. To do this well, the area must be left alone between spraying.

If young people insist on breaking through the fence, dragging sleds over the surface, and gouging it before it is ready for use, a smooth skating surface never will result.

There are those to whom a closed gate is a challenge, to whom even a direct appeal is wasted and invites only insult. Such are difficult to understand.

Certainly they do not stop to think of the work represented in such a project. Many men who never will don a skate or pick up a racquet have devoted their time to preparing this surface. There is no personal gain. They only are trying to provide a healthy form of recreation for the vast majority of young people who will cooperate.

Perhaps that large majority should do a little policing on their own. They might be able to discourage the activities of potential hoods who find their greatest pleasure in destruction.

We are told that part of our caption of last week was incorrect as regards to the ice skating on Beatty field. The Jaycees as an organization are not supervising the rink as a project. However, it is possible that a few of them as individuals will volunteer to do so.

Again we run into that problem of supervision, and the obvious fact that play areas are not seasonal. If playgrounds are good for a few weeks in summer, they and related indoor areas can be made useful the year around. But volunteers cannot be expected to take over. They are needed to help and to do much of the work, but it is presumptuous to expect any one person or group of persons to assume the responsibility of supervising any activity for the community.

The cost of supervision, much of which will be paid by the state, as is the case with our playground leaders, is a small item compared with the overall cost of government and the good that can come from it. In fact, every dollar spent to keep young people occupied with healthy activities comes back through actual savings in reduced delinquency costs at later dates, proof of which can be found in the records of communities which have extended their play periods. In these communities, police and court records reveal that there has been a dollars and cents savings, to say nothing of the moral values.

In short, as supervised play time and facilities have expanded, the time given to juvenile crime by the police and the courts has decreased! What better proof?

LIKE AUTO SHOWS?

The Tri-State Auto Show will be held this winter from January 21 to 28, not including Sunday, in the Hunt Armory, at East Liberty. One of the sidelights will be a toddlers' sweepstakes. The cars displayed will include futuristic cars and experimental models. If your hobby is motorizing, this show might be worth the trip, thus using your chief pleasure to enjoy a related exhibition.

BLIND EARS

We often have said that America has developed blindness of the ears. In many homes the radio or television set always is turned on, with a continuous round of sound that represents so much variety that few people could possibly enjoy every minute of it.

For this reason many of us have developed a shut-off valve in our mind that cuts out portions of the programs we do not like. At the same time our minds must be occupied throughout the day with a variety of unconstructive chatter, that no doubt sinks into our subconscious and has some effect on our thinking and our personalities.

What effect this has on our minds is something for those on the Mental Health program to ask. Though it might prove embarrassing, inasmuch as the medium for the program is radio. But as long as the time is paid for, even radio probably would not care.

NOTHING SERIOUS, PLEASE

How many times have you sat in a home where the radio or television was turned on, and have been pleased

Lausche For V. P.?

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. -- Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio has finally shaken off his provincial misgivings about the national scene and moved to put himself in a position to cash his political assets.

He aims to take Ohio's 58-vote delegation to the Democratic national convention as a solid bloc for bargaining purposes.

He hopes for the Vice-Presidency. At the very least he intends to put the Democratic candidate for President under such obligation to him that Lausche will be assured of a top job in the Federal government if and when he wants it.

A Catholic, he says he knows the Presidency is beyond his reach. But he has been encouraged to believe -- perhaps by recent mention of the Vice Presidency for Mayor Wagner of New York who is Catholic -- that there is no objection in their party to a Catholic in the second spot.

Lausche has spent virtually all his adult life in public office. He has been successful and he enjoys it. For five terms he has been Governor of Ohio with a salary of $20,000 and such perquisites, as car, servants, etc.

He does not want to return to the private practice of law; even if he liked it, he would need important success to duplicate his present status and standard of living. Nor does he want to end up in a minor Federal post.

He still may decide to run for the Senate against the incumbent, Republican George Bender. Most observers think he would win. But he is uncertain about whether he would like the Senate; former governors do often find it boring after having executive power.

The caution with which Lausche approaches national politics reflects a little known episode in his life when he was a lame duck. He had been Governor two years when he was defeated for re-election in 1947. Private life had no appeal and he came to Washington to see what President Truman and the National Committee had to offer.

But Truman had his own troubles. He had got a Republican Congress -- his "80th worst" -- in the same election and he was learning the hard way that his bourbon and branch water cronies weren't much help in running the government. The party in Ohio was disorganized and Lausche had the reputation of being a lone wolf.

Nothing materialized that was worth Lausche's while and he returned home feeling very small potatoes. His coolness since toward Washington, its natives and its works, not to mention toward Truman, has been marked.

In 1952, the Ohio delegation to the Democratic convention was widely split. On the first ballot it gave Kefauver 29 1/2, Barkley 2 1/2, Harriman 1, Kerr 1, Russell 7 and Stevenson 13. As a result it had no effect on the choices of the convention.

Kefauver had gone into the Ohio primary. He is being urged to do so again but is restrained by commendable caution about tangling with favorite sons.

Perhaps Lausche is not sincere in waving off the Presidency. That bug bites deeply. He is certainly being practical as he has an outside chance at best. Labor is dead against him, for one thing, and he is not well known over the country.

Yet he is, paradoxically, of all candidates in the field more like President Eisenhower than any. He is famously honest and a middle-roader. He is an athlete and shoots a near-professional 71-72 at golf. He has the same outgoing, easy way of getting along with people; men and women both find him attractive and manly. He reads little and is not reflective; he is wary of the intellectual and admires business success.

Inexpensive Giving

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- It is the custom to repeat here every now and again a wise remark made some years ago by the intrepid Sir John Boyd Orr, the great Scotsman, a citizen of the world, who was first head of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

It was to the effect that the world is not making even a beginning in solving its problems until it has made it possible for every human being on the globe to get enough to eat every day. So simple a goal and yet so difficult to reach.

How difficult we see from the gaunt statistics showing that about half of the earth's inhabitants go to bed hungry every night. A grim thought for this season, and especially grim when we think of our own plenty represented in surpluses of food for which we are about to exhaust storage space. We just keep storing it away while millions go hungry, and some, incidentally, right here at home on our own doorsteps.

Keeping it locked up has two very practical disadvantages, aside from the humanitarian questions. One is that the vast surplus hangs over our markets to depress prices, which is at this time a problem that is plaguing our experts on agriculture. The other is that the storage is costing us the staggering sum of one million a day, or $365 millions a year, a bill we taxpayers must meet.

If we could get our surplus food distributed to where it is needed, we could, on the positive side, turn this curse of plenty into a blessing, for nothing can make friends so quickly for us all over the world as feeding hungry people. We need friends, and more friends, if we are to preserve for ourselves, and spread to others, the free system which itself makes it possible for us to grow so much food and to make so much of everything else that we and the rest of the world need.

It truly is defeatism to take the road of reducing production. What we are challenged to do is to lick the problem of distribution. In fact until we, who pride ourselves so on our ability to lick any problem, can solve this problem of distribution of our plenty -- then we really can't begin to meet our responsibilities, or fulfill our role, as the leader of the free peoples of the world.

It is encouraging now to be able to report some small progress, which came in Secretary of Agriculture Benson's announcement of release to charitable organizations, both domestic and foreign, of as much surplus wheat, corn, rice and dried beans as they can distribute, for which they have to pay only the cost of distribution abroad. Under existing law, as amended twice in the last three years, the government meets the other costs of re-processing and transportation in this country to ports of departure.

An estimate based on the capacities of the charitable organizations which will participate is that they will be able to handle some 750 to 800 million pounds of wheat and corn in 1956, of which about 500 million pounds will be in wheat and wheat flour.

This represents only a trickle from our vast stocks. For 500 million pounds of wheat translates into eight million bushels -- and the amount of wheat owned by the government as of October 31 through the Commodity Credit Corporation is 920 million bushels in which the government invested $2.5 billions. Stocks of corn owned by the government total 700 million bushels of which the cost was $1.2 billions, while the government owns 6.3 million bales of cotton which cost is $1.1 billions. The government also owns $177 millions in rice and $18 millions in dried beans. This is not the entire surplus. The Commodity Credit Corporation holds other large amounts on loan.

During the past year the government disposed of $1.7 billions in surplus agricultural commodities by the various means permitted under the law which include barter and sale as well as the charitable distribution used this week. In addition to religious organizations which participate, there is also C A R E which has long been in the field of distributing packages of food that are paid for by individual donors. C A R E expects to distribute two million packages containing 40 million pounds of surplus farm products for an estimated cost of $12 millions between October 1 and through the Christmas season.

Still needed is a grand scale distribution of which our government should be capable of devising ways and means. Another effort in this direction was announced recently by Senator Capehart (R., Ind.), who is having a bill drafted to set up an "International Food Community Fund" and a board to administer it and to distribute our surpluses. It would be comparable

It is a complicated problem, but should not be beyond our solution, else we hardly match in intelligent planning our impulse of charity.

THE OBSERVER

Observations

By Bob Walsh

RECORD SELFISHNESS

A record for selfish giving may be in the making. Some people estimate that half the world's population is hungry or underprivileged. At least by our standards. Half the people of the world need help.

As the result of this, the United States may appropriate as much as five billion dollars to help others. And the Russians are smiling their way about the world to the accompaniment of similar promises.

But neither is doing this because of a basic desire to help others. It is being done for self preservation in a cold war. The two strongest powers in the world are not giving out of the goodness of their hearts. They are giving to beat each other.

At this Christmas time, it is not an encouraging picture . . . maybe. The "maybe" lies in the fact that you can't practice good year after year without coming to know others, and without some of it rubbing off. This selfish start may result in an astonishing finish.

The bear and eagle are feeding the lambs, and the lambs may bring them together.

AUDITORIUM NEED

An angle has developed in the problem of providing an adequate auditorium for Warren about which few people probably are aware. Warren has depended on the First Presbyterian church to seat its major gatherings for events which could be handled there, such as graduations. And even then, many relatives have been unable to attend.

The First Presbyterian church now is starting a renovating program, and included will be the elimination of the Sunday School auditorium, which has augmented the sanctuary seating in emergencies. This will make the seating even less than that in the Beatty auditorium, which already is too small.

It amazes us that no PTA, or similar organization, has taken this subject on as a study. Anyone who consults with the top school architects of the country, anyone who accepts the advice of high level educational groups, anyone who combines these findings with the peculiar needs of this area, will come up with the conclusion that Warren needs an auditorium that will seat at least 1,600 people.

If you think this is something to take lightly and allow time to solve, you are wrong. The new Warren high school is being built on paper right now. And the thinking of those who quietly go about this business is that we need an auditorium no larger than 1,200.

The fact is, if estimates are correct, population growth, new industry, and other factors will assure Warren of a high school population totaling 1,600 within ten years. Where will we seat them?

And if events staged there serve only half the student body, where will you put the parents, brothers, aunts, uncles, and friends of the eight hundred when they take a personal interest in such affairs?

The choral festival this week was an example. With only a few more than two hundred students taking part, the place was filled, and many of the participants were forced to stand while others performed. Only an exceptionally cold night prevented the necessity of putting an overflow in the cafeteria. The radio and the cold kept many home.

Even the old gym, with its bad acoustics, served us better than this. Are we to forever hold our major scholastic events in a gym or in an over-filled auditorium?

Now is the time to think about this. Now is the time to study it. Now is the time to express your wishes to the school board. We do not want another antique in ten years!

UNUSED KNOWLEDGE

A lengthy announcement of the intended candidacy of Leon H. Gavin for re-election to Congress lists quite a line of subjects on which he is supposed to be informed. He will be running for his eighth term, and in the seven he already has served we wonder why he hasn't used some of that fount of knowledge to do something for his constituents.

The "something" we have in mind is flood control and waterway problems. It says there in big print that he is "well informed on questions" of such problems.

Thursday, December 22, 1955

He may be well informed on the questions, this paper alone has asked enough, but he certainly hasn't come up with any answers, as far as his Warren county constituents are concerned.

THIS PILE OF QUILT TOPS will be picked up by ladies of the Warren First Lutheran church workshop group and finished preparatory to distributing to medical institutions. For the comfort of babies, Mr. Anderson uses outing flannel as beautiful additions in any layette.

YEARS OF EXPERIENCE are behind this operation of machine sewing two quilt blocks together. Ernie Anderson has been sewing since he learned the skill from his mother more than one-half century ago. Since 1942 he has been using his skill to spread cheer and comfort.

Nimble Fingers Serve Charitable Interests

By Lewis Crippen

Partial incapacitation of Ernie Anderson following a heart attack in 1942 has tended to increase his services to mankind rather than to retard them. Forced to retire from the Pennsylvania Electric Co. after nearly nineteen years employment with the utility he has dedicated a skill which he learned nearly three-fourths of a century ago from his mother to the comfort of the physically afflicted.

Mr. Anderson, now 75, has been sewing most of his life. When faced with a future of inactivity in 1942, it was only natural that he should seek to find solace in the hobby that was uppermost in his mind. Mr. Anderson completed nearly 117 quilts and sold them in order to finance more sewing and to augment his limited income.

The inner spiritual resources which determine whether a man shall use his skill selfishly or for the benefit of others can not be adequately understood nor described. Through a desire to be useful, Ernie Anderson began to distribute quilts without charge to families confronted by the devastation of fire or the discouragement of lingering illness.

Twenty or more have been distributed around the world with the warming comfort bringing cheer in as widely separated places as India, China, Chicago and New York City. Eleven have undoubtedly accompanied Christian vanguards as they opened new frontiers to the light of the Gospels since they have been consigned to missionary work of the Free Methodist church.

During the second World War, Mr. Anderson put aside the quilt blocks and answered the urgent call of the American Red Cross for service-required products. Without financial compensation, he made more than two thousand Army and Navy sewing kits and bedside bags. Many who sacrificed for the preservation of our nation will remember the cloth belt-like, dual pocketed, containers which were tied around the waist under the clothing in which they carried their valuables. Many others were stocked with needles, thread, small scissors, and other material which the "man alone" could utilize for keeping his clothes usable and neat appearing.

Three years ago, ladies of the

cheer to the hospitalized after being finished by ladies of the Warren First Lutheran church.

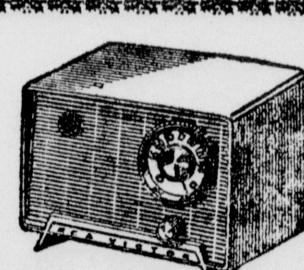

THIS BED DOES DOUBLE DUTY -- Mr. Anderson who is unable to go up and down stairs sleeps here nights and uses the bed for a layout table during the day. The alternating large and small blocks are arranged completely before the sewing machine is put to use.

Warren First Lutheran church arranged with Mr. Anderson to supply quilt tops which they could finish and distribute to worthy institutions. Since that time, Ernie has completed more than 250 covers, of which 142 were sewed in 1955. Many are used here in Warren County but dozens have been sent to the Passavant Memorial Hospital for epileptics in Rochester, Pa., the Passavant Hospital in Pittsburgh, and Lutheran homes for orphans and the aged. One hundred lap robes were recently presented to the guests of the Rouse Hospital near Youngsville.

The church ladies are constantly on the alert for material that Mr. Anderson can transform into beautiful coverings. They supply the thread, needles, and bags of used clothing in sufficient quantities to satisfy the demands of his nimble fingers.

Visitors in the Anderson home are always so intrigued by his generous spirit that they ask how they can aid his work. In response to his request, they usually return within a few days with armloads of discarded coats, drapes, and other heavy articles. Frequently, outing flannel garments are discovered among the contributions. These Mr. Anderson carefully preserves to make quilts for babies, which would lift the heart of any needy expectant mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson reside at 11 Madison ave., Warren. Their three children live in distant cities -- Emma Moyer in Union City, Edna Anderson in Chicago, and Archie Anderson in DuBois. They have one grandson, Douglas, living in Warren.

During this season of the year when our efforts are united in relieving suffering throughout the world, we salute the continuing services of Ernie Anderson. With very little imagination we can visualize Christ reiterating his famous statement, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

DEER KILL

Preliminary estimates suggest that the recent deer season may have resulted in the biggest kill since 1949. That year the gunners got over 46,000 bucks and 84,000 antlerless deer, for a total of 130,723.

There have been higher, such as 1938, when the season was closed on bucks and the hunters brought in 171,662 antlerless animals. And the tops was 1940 when it read 40,995 bucks and 145,580 antlerless, adding up to 186,575. The biggest buck year was 1939 when 49,106 were shot down.

Getting back to 1955, we find estimates running close to 75,000, divided evenly between bucks and antlerless.

Locally the kill of bucks did not seem exceptional, but a fair share of the nimrods brought one in. An unusual number of albinos and halfwhites seem to appear at our door for pictures. In fact, so many of them that they ceased to be novelties.

The doe season in Warren county was very good, judging by our limited observations. Most of the hunters we know who did not have a buck at the end of the season, managed to find a doe.

ARCHER RECORD, STORAGE LIMIT, EARLESS DEER

(The Game Commission release this week has several unusual and informative articles. They follow.)

TIME LIMIT ON GAME STORAGE

The Game Commission herewith answers the question: how long may wild game be retained in storage? The following is a quote from the Game Law: "Game lawfully taken during the open season . . . may be had in possession up to and including July first of the year immediately following."

Therefore, the meat of wild game lawfully taken in the 1955 season must be consumed prior to July 2,

ARCHER SETS STATE RECORD

Kenneth F. Harper, a resident of Bradford, Pa., accomplished an enviable feat this year. He killed a buck deer in the October special season for archers and a bear in the November bear season -- both through the use of bow and arrow.

Harper says that in killing both animals he used a 59-pound pull Osage bow made by himself in 1939. He fired 28-inch homemade Port Orford Cedar arrows with 125-grain broadheads.

The deer weighed 110 pounds hog-dressed and was a four-point. It was taken in Sugar Run Valley, McKean County. The bear dressed out 172 pounds. It fell to the archer in Coffee Run, Warren County. The first of three arrows used in stopping the deer was fired at 100 feet, and hit the buck under the backbone. The second and third arrows were fired at 50 and 40 feet, all hitting their mark. One arrow, a heart shot, killed the bear at 200 feet, Harper says.

Records kept by the Game Commission and the Pennsylvania State Archery Association indicate this is the first time both big game animals have been bagged the same year by one person using the bow and arrow method of hunting.

SPORTSMAN SQUARES ACCOUNT WITH FARMER

All too often hunters as a group have been pictured as destructive and unappreciative only because an occasional individual ignored his obligation to his rural host. But, as the following story demonstrates, most sportsmen hunt farmlands with a feeling of responsibility and appreciation.

In mid-November the wife of a cooperator on a Farm-Game Project in northwest Pennsylvania received an anonymous letter containing a one dollar bill. The unsigned message indicated a sportsman thought that, in parking his car off the highway, he had damaged the farmer's winter wheat. The lady inspected the field edge and found no damage. She told a Game Commission representative she would have returned the dollar were the sender's name and address known to her. The farmer's wife was pleased over the consideration shown by the sportsman, and she wished she could be as fair and return the money.

EARLESS DEER

The 1955 hunting season produced the usual crop of stories on wildlife oddities. John J. Finnegan, outdoor writer for The York Dispatch, wrote in the December 6 issue of the newspaper about an unusual trophy head bagged the first day of the buck season. Excerpts from Finnegan's column read:

"Charles Barnes, Stewartstown druggist . . . shot a buck in Potter County last week which: 1. Had a red spot on its nose. 2. Had no ears.

"When he went to claim his prize, a perfect four-pointer weighing about 130 pounds, he was abashed to discover the animal was completely devoid of ears. Only the stumps were visible where the missing auricles should have been, and the critter had a red spot on its nose. 'I think I've shot Rudolph', said Barnes and asked us to check on the ancestry of the animal.

"We contacted the Game Commission at Harrisburg. Roger M. Latham, Chief of Wildlife Research, said that although he hadn't seen the animal he could venture several opinions. Latham said the most logical one was that the deer in question was the victim of a forest fire.

"In the meantime, we haven't heard of Kris Kringle putting out any tracers," said Finnegan.

BUYERS' CORNER

COUNTY PAYS BETTER THAN WARREN

If those state forms made out by the state's industries every year are at all accurate, Warren's average wage scale is not as high as that paid in the county. Warren wage earners in 1954 received close to nine million dollars, for an average of $3,470.

In the county the total paid was $14,659,100 for an average of $3,612.

These figures include only industry, and there are many businesses and workers, such as teachers, farmers, and municipal employees not reported. They also do not include all salary records.

In the salary record, which we suspect is far from complete, the county paid 1,023 salaried workers $5,171,600. Warren paid 807 salaried people $3,827,500.

All reported figures were lower than those of 1953, except the horsepower of electric motors in area plants and the amount of capital invested. We used less motors to develop more horsepower and invested more money to yield a lower gross.

The total of salaries and wages for the county was $19,830,000. In Warren it was $12,655,400. The value of products produced was $69,361,900 in the county. In Warren it was $50,874,900.

This suggests that you don't have to come to Warren to make big money. Apparently there are plants in the county that pay a higher scale. And the saving in travel costs also is an item.

This should be encouraging to communities, such as Sheffield and Tidioute, which have done little but think about obtaining new industry.

The figures also should be interesting to those considering the earned income tax for municipal finances. These figures are not complete, as we mentioned above, and certainly the salaries and the earned income of professional men, independent business men, and many others, are not included. But they do tell the basic story.

A LA TIDIOUTE

Going through a pile of releases, we ran across the Warren Chamber of Commerce's November issue of The Warren Idea. In it was a paragraph concerning a questionnaire, called "Rate Your Town", which it says you will hear about soon, with the Warren Times Mirror cooperating.

The Tidioute Observer is away ahead of us. The editor of that paper many months ago used the Rate Your Town questionnaire in a very effective editorial. It was enlightening in Tidioute. It should be equally enlightening in Warren.

FLY IT YOURSELF

We understand that some skepticism has been expressed in local reportorial circles concerning the claims made for the Cessna 172, a plane which we discussed a bit last week. This plane is supposed to be very easy to fly, as easy as driving a car, says the publicity release.

However, in the release is this notation, "Note to Editor: Plane is available to you if you want to try it and do a feature article."

That is much fairer than most releases we receive concerning various products. We understand that arrangements can be made through the Warren airport. If not, write Alfred B. Bennett, Beaver County Airport, Beaver, Pa., who is the Pittsburgh area dealer, and will oblige.

This may not be the easiest plane to fly and it may not eliminate the requirements for obtaining a license, but it apparently is a plane so simple to operate that the makers are unafraid of skeptical newsmen.

Christmas Eve and Day on Ch. 4

CHRISTMAS Eve and Christmas Day will be observed on WBEN-TV with all the solemnity and festiveness due the great Christian holiday through a local and CBS schedule designed especially for self, Danny Thomas, Ann Blyth and Frank Lovejoy will appear in "This Day We Celebrate."

WBEN-TV will then televise Solemn Pontifical Midnight Mass direct from St. Joseph's New Cathedral. The Most Rev. Joseph A. Burke, bishop of the Buffalo Diocese, will be celebrant.

On Christmas Day, Uncle Jerry Brick's Club at 10:30 AM will feature the St. Mark's Chorus. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the Rev. Herbert Hitchcock will read Dickens' "Christmas Carol," and at 2 PM the Bell Aircraft Chorus, under the direction of Quintin Renner, will sing favorite carols.

Things to Come

Most recent Christmas articles begin with something like this, "With the approach of the Yuletide season . . .", but that is no longer correct. Christmas is here and with it a busy schedule of events in and around Warren.

Two semi-formal dances will be held by the Y-Teens. This evening the high school Y-Teens and the Lettermen's association are sponsoring the annual Belle Ball. The theme is a "Symphony In Snow". Couples will enjoy dancing in a cloud of gold and white to the music of the Knobby Trio. The time is from 9 until 1 in the YWCA.

The following evening in the "Y" gym, the Snow Ball will take place. This dance is being held by the Beaty Y-Teens and the Junior Hi-Y. The Knobby Trio will play for this dance also.

For adults there will be a dance, too. The General Joseph H. Pendleton Detachment of the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will sponsor the annual Marine Ball at the Marconi Outing Club on Christmas night, December 25. Tickets will be on sale at the B & B Smoke Shop and the United Cigar Store. Dress is optional.

"ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE" . . . said William Shakespeare, but the stage is also a small world of its own. The Warren Players Club is becoming more a part of that world with each production. The next will be Othello, directed by Maritza Morgan and Edith O'Hara. The cast consists of eleven men and three women. They are Dick Blair, Bill Condrell, Kay Costley, Bob Fey, George Konkol, Joan Lavery, Tom McMahon, Ray Nichols, Don Norris, Kent Petersen, Edward Peterson, Rev. Gregory Rowley, Dick Stone, and Andrea Wright.

ST. JOHN'S DAY PLANS . . . have been announced by the committee representing Warren's Masonic lodges. The annual celebration will be held on Thursday, December 29, at 6:15 p. m. in Beaty Cafeteria. Judge Harold C. Kessinger, of Ridgewood, N. J., will be the guest speaker. He is widely known as a world traveler, editor, publisher, educator, banker, and humorist.

This will mark the 155th annual St. John's Day celebration in Warren.

RESERVATIONS MUST BE IN . . . by December 27 for the formal dinner-dance for teens at the Coneango Valley Country Club, on Thursday, December 29. Dinner is at 7 p. m. and each person may invite a guest.

THE ANNUAL NEW YEAR'S EVE BALL . . . at the Coneango Valley Country Club will be held on Saturday, December 31. Reservations may be made by calling 1240 no later than December 29. Cocktails are at 7, dinner at 8, and dancing begins at 9 p. m.

THE PRESBYTERIAN MEN . . . will have a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. on Tuesday, January 10, at the Presbyterian church. The Rev. Nelson O. Horne of the Tidioute Presbyterian church will be the guest speaker.

A CHANCE TO "RATE YOUR TOWN" . . . will be provided by questionnaires through the Warren Chamber of Commerce and the cooperation of the Warren Times-Mirror. The Chamber of Commerce wishes to get additional ideas about making our town a better place to live.

MUSIC BY THE "BLUE KNIGHTS" . . . will be the high spot of the WHS student and alumni dance at the "Spot" on Thursday, December 28. The "Knights" are from Allegheny college.

Dancing will be from 9 to 12, and admission is 50 cents per person. High school students from the surrounding area are also invited to attend.

YMCA CHRISTMAS SCHEDULE
Thursday, December 22 - 9:30 a. m., crafts class and gift wrapping session. Several Warren merchants have very kindly donated gift wrappings and each boy may bring his own paper and ribbon if he wishes.

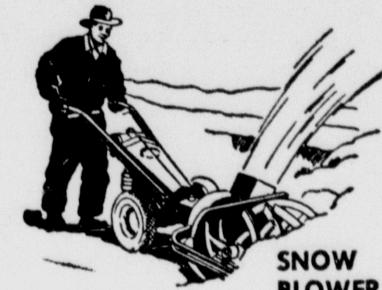

The Gra-Y will go Christmas caroling on Thursday evening. Mothers have very generously volunteered to make cookies and hot chocolate to give to the carolers on their return.

Friday, December 23 - 7 p. m., a Yule movie with a Christmas party following for the movie crew.

Tuesday, December 27 - an after-Christmas game party will be held. Each boy may bring any toys which he received for Christmas to the party and let the other children play with them. This will be under supervision, of course.

Wednesday, December 28 - This is entry day. Entries will be accepted for tournaments, crafts fair, and the annual train race which will

SHEFFIELD SWEEPS WARREN

A team that promises to be one of the best in the area stepped onto Beaty court last Friday and completely outclassed the Warren Dragons. It was no contest in any respect as Sheffield smoothly marked up 72 points to 53 for Warren.

Sheffield has height, speed, and poise. They move well, pass accurately and quickly, and they are circling every second. They waste no time with dribbling, they move in for the passes, men always are open, and each player is sufficiently well drilled in fundamentals to handle himself in all situations.

This isn't to say they are perfect. They are high school boys and have much to learn, but if they don't let it get to their heads, listen to an obviously good coach, and keep drilling, the Wolverines will be knocking at some mighty big doors next March.

Warren's passing was ragged. The boys dribble when they should be moving the ball, they congest into crowded areas and look like anything but a team. They also were very slow alongside of Sheffield.

Despite all this, Warren could have made it closer by sinking a few easy lifts that were missed.

Harrington and Trusler took advantage of Sheffield lapses to steal passes for scores. And Rickerson sank a pair of long range shots. Under the boards they got nowhere.

Homan led the Warren scoring with 21. Sheffield scoring was well distributed, Taylor and Vashaw getting 15 each, and Sadler scoring 14. Hoden collected five baskets. Taylor was good for six.

The visitors were dead from the foul line, getting 28 points. Warren was good for only 13. From the field it was 22 buckets to 20, favor Sheffield. But it was three stolen balls and a few long range shots that made it that close and not good team play on the part of Warren.

KANE GOES IT AGAIN

Kane came to Warren on Tuesday and used up two extra periods to break a tie and win, 61 to 59, over the Dragons. It was 53 to 53 at the end of the regular game, Homan tying it up with foul shots. Homan made four more foul points in the first extra period to tie it at 59. In a quick-death second extra period, Kane's Swanson put one in for the ball game, after Warren had controlled the ball for several minutes but without ability to penetrate the Kane defense. Homan led the scoring with 27.

Warren now plays the alumni, Tuesday.

SECONDS ROLL

The Warren seconds continue to win ball games. They took Sheffield, 30 to 28, coming from behind with Rasmussen sinking one in the final second to take the game. They also had a close one against Kane, but won, 44 to 42.

IN THE COUNTY

In other county games, Northern Area lost to Cassadaga, 67 to 52, with Orcutt getting 21 to lead the Knights. The Knights then played the alumni and won 52 to 49. They now meet Sherman, Friday, away.

Sheffield ran into trouble at Smethport. The Ports held them to a lowly 48 points, while getting 43. It will take better ball than that to get by some of those teams ahead, such as the Johnnies on their match box floor.

Townville defeated Tidioute, 61 to 53, with McManigle's 12 and Morrison's 13 leading the Bulldogs. Tidioute doesn't play again until December 30 when it goes to Sigel.

Youngsville lost to Lawrence Park, 70 to 61, with Moromski getting 19.

Then the Eagles licked Edinboro, 60 to 58, with Kulbacki scoring 28.

YOUNGSVILLE HOLDS LEAD

The Youngsville team continued undefeated in the Warren Y basketball league, taking the Rockets, 77 to 40, and the Observer, 70 to 50. The Style Shop stayed in the race by beating the Observer, 75 to 57, and the Rockets, 84 to 52.

QUICKIES

ALL-NAVY honors were given two area football players. Steve Eisenhauer, Sheffield's All-American while at Annapolis, now is playing guard for Pensacola Naval Station, and has been named on the All-Navy team. Bernie Flowers, of Erie, who was an All-American end while playing for Purdue, now is at end for Yokosuka, Japan, and also made the team.

GOOD PUBLICITY but not too serious is the current row between Tommy Bolt and Sam Sneed. Tommy says Sam has too many friends in the southern crowds who kick his ball into improved lies. It started with a bantering exchange during the Miami play-off, but has been built into something bordering on a formal charge by the press boys.

A MERE $180 was taken home by Toby Lyons from the $15,000 Sanford Open, despite the Jamestown pro's good play. He had 68, 70, 69, and 71, for 278. It took 269 by Canada's Al Balding to win. Toby's 69 on the third round included a two stroke penalty for an unplayable lie.

A MAJOR SPORT in Warren high school is wrestling, contrary to our comments in this column last week. Its status has been changed since last year, and the reward for making the team now is a sweater with letter. As for the cheerleader suggestion, school officials are wondering who the leaders would lead, with attendance so poor.

Warren has been going down-hill at the gate. An always good wrestling team fails to draw. An undefeated football team didn't fill the stands. The small number of seats in the gym are not completely filled by the basketball fans.

This writer suspects we are in a television cycle similar to the radio phase we went through a few years ago. TV may be more lasting because the action can be seen. But radio made new fans who wanted to come to see sport in the flesh. TV may do the same if you give it time. The novelty also will wear thin.

ALL-STARS from Warren and Jamestown are meeting in their annual basketball series, according to a Jamestown paper. Jamestown comes to Warren on Thursday (what one?) and Warren goes there on a Friday.

AREA ACTION

Franklin begins to look like a power in Section Two. It took Vincent, 60 to 55, and Pittsburgh Oliver, 54 to 52. Corry nailed Union City, 80 to 55, and Millcreek, 54 to 34.

Cranberry knocked off what looks like a weak Titusville team, 69 to 54, and Titusville beat Grove City, 48 to 44. Hickory beat Meadville, 56 to 40, and Greenville did it, 64 to 53.

Up Erie way Academy rolled along, 96 to 73 over Wesleyville, and 82 to 61 over Harborcreek.

Erie Prep beat Conneaut, 76 to 63. Tech spanked Oil City, 71 to 49. East took Wesleyville, 79 to 72.

Harborcreek beat Millcreek, 51 to 43, North East topped Wattensburg, 64 to 28.

Hickory defeated Fredonia, 65 to 51, Mercer beat Rocky Grove, 56 to 48, and West Middlesex, 85 to 76.

New Castle powered along with a 105 to 28 shellacking of Warren, Ohio, and an 83 to 47 locking of Sharpsville. Sharpsville previously beat Conneaut Valley, 61 to 47.

Sharon beat Warren, Ohio, 79 to 62. DuBois upset Johnsonburg, 62 to 51. Ridgway beat Smethport, 52 to 36. Otto Twp. licked Wilcox, 68 to 21.

Who said Bradford was tough? Little St. Marys beat the Owls, 45 to 44. It also took Brockway, 50 to 34. Emporium beat Port Allegany, 66 to 44, and Coudersport, 59 to 51.

Kane drubbed Olean, 57 to 35, Gowanda beat Jamestown, 58 to 53, Dunkirk smacked Southwestern, 61 to 44, Falconer swamped Fredonia, 99 to 46, and Olean beat Fredonia, 73 to 59.

In Brief

NEWLY-ELECTED Warren County officials will be inaugurated at 10 a. m., Monday, January 2, 1956, in the large court room of the Warren County Court House. Since Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr. is among those to receive the oath of office, it has not been determined who will preside. Others to assume responsibilities of county offices are: County Commissioners Blain Mead, L. L. Johnson and Lewis L. Crippen; Treasurer Robert Ritchie; Prothonotary Ralph E. Sires; Sheriff L. E. Linder; Register and Recorder Gurney R. Ball; Auditors Charles Briggs, Harry R. Chinberg, and

Ralph N. Summerton; and Jury Commissioners Wilma J. Toner and Marjorie Hartnett.

WARREN STATE HOSPITAL PATIENTS will share their Christmas celebration with the listening audience of radio station WNAE and WRRN-FM at 12:45 p. m., Sunday, December 25, when Franklin and Olive Hoff will take the microphone into the institution. The broadcast will be the fourth of the current MENTAL HEALTH AND YOU series. The festival at the North Warren hospital is eagerly anticipated by the three thousand patients, staff members and employees.

VETERANS ATTENTION! The office of Veterans Administrator Joseph D. Benson in the Warren County Court House will be closed from Friday, December 23, through Monday, December 26.

AFTER CHRISTMAS SPENDING can be thoroughly enjoyed by dozens of Warren County farmers if they collect their conservation payments from the Warren County committee of the U. S. ASC. Mrs. Wilford Meleen, office manager, reports that forms have been mailed to those who have qualified and stresses that the payments must be accepted before December 31, 1955 or the allotment will be returned to the government agency for redistribution.

TWO-WAY RADIOS have been purchased and installed by members of Pleasant twp. Fire Department through donations which have been raised by employing money cards. The families were requested to insert a quarter per week until the receptacles were filled. The department wishes to thank all the contributors and request any who were overlooked or still have the cards to mail donations to Richard Hedman, RD 1, Warren.

A PARING KNIFE was allegedly used by Mrs. Cecelia Thompson, 44, of 317 Laurel st., Warren, to stab her husband, Leonard, on Friday, December 16. Mr. Thompson, who drives truck for Anderson Baking Co., is in Warren General Hospital recuperating from the wound.

Mrs. Thompson was arrested by Warren police on Monday when she returned to Warren after being missing since the laceration occurred. She plead "not guilty" to a charge of assault with intent to maim when arraigned before Marion B. Loucks, justice of the peace. Mrs. Thompson was released on $2,000 bond with instructions to appear for a hearing which has been tentatively set for January 11, 1956.

TWO TRAFFIC ARRESTS occurred with minutes of each other at the corner of Conewango ave. and Alexander st. in the early morning hours of Sunday, December 18. Jack C. Gregory, of R. D. 3, Sugar Grove, was charged with reckless driving after he lost control of his car, left the east side of Conewango ave., and overturned. The driver and passengers, Paul Hulbert of Warren and John Sherwood of Sheffield, were slightly injured. The accident occurred at approximately 2 a. m.

While Warren police officers Bean and Ludwick were investigating the Gregory accident, Marion C. Howerton, of Butler, traveling at a high rate of speed, nearly struck the policemen and stopped just short of the wrecked vehicle. Howerton was arrested for drunken driving.

THE WARREN GENERAL HOSPITAL board of directors approved a suggestion of the executive committee that the management consultant firm of Cresap, McCormick, and Paget be employed to study and institute business practices that will create more effective operation of the hospital services. The firm's most recent recommendations developed for improving the job classification, compensation plan, and organizational structure are under consideration by the board. The new study will probably start soon after the first of the year and will require two or three months to complete. The Board approved the installa-

"Number Please"

Calling by Number Is Important . . . More Than Ever During the Holidays!

At this time of year more people than ever visit faraway family and friends by telephone. And even though we've made many special arrangements to handle the extra volume, some calls may not go through as quickly as you—and we—would like.

You can be sure your operator will do her level best to handle all your calls promptly. However, you can help her give you faster, better service during the Holiday Season by following this simple suggestion:

Whenever possible, give the operator the number of the telephone you want to reach. That way, she won't have to detour your call through Information, and it will go through much faster.

THE WNAE STAFF presented $102 to Major Charles W. Schaffer to be used by the Salvation Army to spread cheer and goodwill during this Christmas season. The radio station employees made the contribution through David Potter in lieu of exchanging gifts at their annual yuletide party.

Major Schaffer remarked that he was anxious to make this the best Christmas ever as he will retire in October of 1956. He stated that the Army still needs additional funds to share the Christmas spirit with more needy families. Last year, 97 homes were investigated and then helped through the facilities of the local unit and this year's demand seems to be about the same.

The major related this tale as to his own entrance into the Salvation Army:

During World War I he was a soldier in the advance forces of the Allies. Supplies were constantly destroyed by the enemy and food had not been distributed for three days.

Finding a quiet place under a bogged down truck, the young soldier wrote a letter to his mother in which he put up the cheerful front by revealing that "all would soon be fine". Completing the letter, his head dropped to his arms and great sobs, caused by hunger and despair, shook his weary body.

Attracted by the tearful outburst, a Salvation Army lassie touched his shoulder and inquired if the sorrow was caused by hunger. Gaining an affirmative answer, the young girl produced steaming hot coffee and delicious pie. At the conclusion of the small but welcome meal, the lassie prayed for the soldier and world conditions in general.

Young Schaffer declared to the girl, "If I live to return to the States, I promise you and God that I shall join the Salvation Army." He kept his sacred promise of that fateful day and testified that he has never been sorry for the decision.
